

The Oxford County Citizen.

ore bakery sells los ly sliced. There is though: The waxed
no zipper opener.

ATHIC PHYSICI

VOLUME XXXV—NUMBER 39

BETHEL, MAINE, THURSDAY, JANUARY 16, 1930

4 Cents Per Copy—$2.00 Per Year

DUGLAS CLA

RIDAY—BETH

2—Res. Calls Ma

ES TREATED

STORE

3 lbs. 25c

53c doz.

3 for 25c

2 for 25c

50c doz.

30c doz.

15 for 25c

heads 25c

5 lbs. 25c

4 cans 25c

and

ANS

00 per cord

50 per cord

ALL SPEED UP AMERICAN MAP

PRESIDENT HOOVER WANTS TO COMPLETE BIG TASK IN EIGHTEEN YEARS.

Washington.—Recognizing the importance of accurate maps to engineers, President Hoover has announced his intention of asking Congress for funds to speed to completion topographic mapping of the United States. Under his plan the job will be completed in eighteen years. Instead of eighty-eight years, the time required if the work proceeds no faster than its present rate.

So far the undertaking is less than half done, and engineers have been urging the government to push the work more rapidly. Two agencies will carry out the project. The coast and geodetic survey will establish a system of triangulation controls. The geological survey, using this system as framework, will then proceed with topographical mapping of the country.

Work of a Century.

For the last 100 years the coast and geodetic survey has established a complete system of triangulation stations along the Atlantic, the Gulf and Pacific coasts. Such stations also supply navigable rivers to the sea of tidewater. In addition, thousands of stations have been established in other parts of the country along the border between the United States and Canada. The work, however, has been proceeding slowly because a vast area still remains to be covered.

1900 the coast and geodetic survey had completed only 7,000 miles of the first order. Now, the total is 26,000 miles, and the engineers are adding to this at the rate of 1,000 miles a year. The coast and geodetic survey has been following a plan which calls for arcs of first, second and third order triangulation throughout the country, the triangles so spaced that no place in the country will be more than twenty-five miles from a triangulation station. It will be brought about when 40,000 miles of arcs are added to those existing. The intermediate areas covered by third order triangulation, or by traverse surveys, by those who want to make detailed surveys, charts or maps.

PICK CENTRAL POINT.

Ninety years ago a central point was selected for making surveys and maps in the United States and connecting waters. The station is known as Meade's catch and is located about 12 miles north of Lucas, Kan. In 1922 the geodetic engineers of Canada and Mexico also adopted this as their central station, so there is now a single central or initial surveying point for all of North America. Completion of the system of triangulation controls will remove such uncertainties.

It will cost the coast and geodetic survey about $4,500,000 to complete its part of the work within the next ten years.

IF YOU STUTTER TRY USING YOUR LEFT HAND

Los Angeles, Calif.—M-m-m-maybe you s-s-a-stutter b-b-because you use your r-r-right h-h-hand i-i-instead of your l-l-left.

Dr. Milton Metfessel, who is professor of psychology at the University of Southern California, has found that left-handed persons who have become accustomed to using their right hand often stutter.

"If a person is physiologically left-handed—that is born to us; the left hand, either because other people do or because he has forced to the mental workings of the patient may be so disturbed as to make him stutter," said Doctor Metfessel today.

He added that some people are not really aware that they are physiologically left-handed, though they seem to use the right easily. He has perfected tests which detect such cases, since the first must make sure whether or not a person has been born left-handed.

"Of course, all left-handed persons do not stutter," said the professor, "and if left-handedness is the cause of their stuttering, it must be treated carefully to prevent a worse condition."

ITALY TO SEND PLANES IN NONSTOP N. Y. HOP

Home.—The Italian government is preparing to send a fleet of ten military hydro-aeroplanes on a nonstop flight from Italy to New York next March.

Crews of the ten great S. S. Macchiarini ships have been undergoing an intensive training for the transatlantic trip and several of them have undertaken flights for 40 consecutive hours over Latin America and Europe.

The air ministry, which is in charge of the flight, has arranged for a liaison with the navy and aeroplane and destroyers will be stationed along the route ready to assist in case of an emergency. Italo Balbo, air minister, will command the flight in person.

The project will constitute the first cruise of Italy's aerial navy. It will be the first to carry out an extensive mapping and charting of the western Mediterranean and northern Africa. The ships flew over the eastern Mediterranean and Black sea.

FRANCE IN 5TH PLACE IN EUROPE'S POPULATION

Paris.—The government has published statistics which show that France, in 1789, the largest nation in Europe, has fallen to fifth place in Europe as a result of its decline.

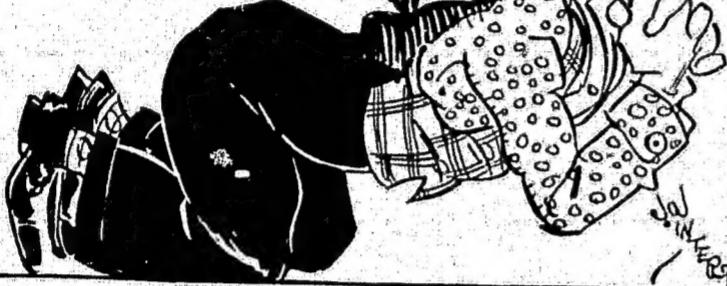

My Radio

By James Hays

Speak to me, Darling, oh, speak!
The store guaranteed you to talk,
How meekly and weakly you squeak,
How loudly you whistle and squawk!
The baby's learning to talk.
And he can say "Mamma" and "Pop!"
You're older than he but you talk—
You whisper and gargle and stop.

Speak to me, radio, speak!
I'll even allow you to sing;
The market review for the week,
A prize-fight—just any old thing.
Jazz music would tickle me pink.
A bedtime story will do.
Oh please, Super-het, don't you think You could say just a sentence or two?

Far into the night I implored
That radio stubborn and still.
It acted as if it were bored
With all of my coaxing until I gave up and started for bed.
And then it remarked with a cough,
"Hooeee—hoo! It's one fifty-five.
This is station Grk Grk signing off."

Without the steel framework the building would not stand up; the framework is needed to hold the various parts of the building together, and to co-ordinate those parts. First-order triangulation has the same function in the topographical mapping of the country.

IMPORTANT BENEFITS.

The triangulation program will yield important benefits to individual states and other political subdivisions.

It will enable them to accurately determine the longitudes and latitudes by which to locate their boundaries. Many counties do not know their exact boundaries or area.

A county in a southern state not long ago wanted to float a loan with New York bankers. When asked what the area of the county was, its officials could not inform them, for the reason that it had not been accurately mapped. The New Yorkers had to make a survey of their own before they could make the required loan. Completion of the system of triangulation controls will remove such uncertainties.

It will cost the coast and geodetic survey about $4,500,000 to complete its part of the work within the next ten years.

WEDDING CAKE WEIGHING 200 POUNDS HAS 360 EGGS

Buffalo, N. Y.—When Rose Rutherford was married recently to Charles Farmer, her father, a baker, decided he'd let some one else bake the wedding cake and thus enjoy the occasion the more. And his lucky for him he did. Walter Ciochetti, hired to do the job, turned out a cake weighing more than 200 pounds. It required 92 pounds of sugar, 36 pounds of butter, 360 eggs, 30 pounds of frosting sugar, and 26 pounds of flour.

BITTER LEGAL BATTLE OVER CALF WORTH $10

Troy, N. C.—A male calf, the original value of which was $10, to the center of a bitter legal battle being waged between Harrison Bridgeman and John Grizel of this place, both of whom are claiming ownership, and the case will be carried to the Superior court of Polk county on an appeal from the decision of Justice T. J. Rhodes, who had awarded Bridgeman possession of the animal.

Both Bridgeman and Grizel owned calves born last February. Grizel required one of them by purchase and, singly enough, considered it to a pasture in which the one owned by Bridgeman was kept. One of the calves died, and Grizel, not sure of the identity of the one living, took its former owner to the pasture, where it was identified as the one sold, according to the records.

Grizel left Grizel and drove the animal away. Bridgeman then came forward with the information that Grizel had stolen his calf and had him arrested for larceny. At a subsequent trial before a jury the charge was dismissed.

But Grizel, not satisfied with the verdict, announced an appeal. In order to keep the calf he was compelled to give $200 bond and agreed to provide it to him until next spring.

CANADIANS SNARE WOLF, TERROR OF DEER HERD

Toronto, Ont.—A large gray wolf which for months has terrorized the large herds of deer roaming through Algonquin Park is dead.

Traps had been set in vain until it appeared he could never be caught.

Jim Sheldene, chief park ranger, recently snared the wolf by placing a snarely lead trap fastened to a fence. Yesterday morning this snare was found. Sheldene found the trap gone. The wolf had crawled through the thick brush and taken the trap away with him. Sheldene and his men followed the trail and after twenty-seven hours of trapping came upon the body of the wolf with the trap still fast to its neck.

CALIFORNIA TO MAKE

MENTAL HYGIENE SURVEY

San Francisco.—Dr. Frederick J. Allen of Philadelphia, who has been selected to serve as director of the mental hygiene survey authorized by the 1929 legislature, will arrive soon to begin work on the survey. The purpose of the mental hygiene survey is to take stock of conditions in California related to deficiency and mental disorder, defect and disease, to bring together all the forces working to ameliorate and prevent these conditions.

Passenger services across the continent by plane are now regularly and firmly established. At least, we may say, their time-tables are full of asterisks and becoming almost comprehensible.

French Society Offers

PRIZE FOR WINE SONG

Paris.—France, the home of wine, is searching for a good wine drinking song.

A prize of $40 will be paid by in Societe des Amis des Vins de France (the Society of the Friends of the Wines of France) for a first class wine drinking song.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

Germany, Italy, and Austria have their drinking songs, but France feels that it has none. Poetry and prose eulogizing the wines of France have passed.

THE
OXFORD COUNTY CITIZEN
PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY
AT BETHEL, MAINE
CARL L. BROWN, Publisher
Entered as second class matter, May 7, 1908, at the post office at Bethel, Maine.

Cards of Thanks, 75c. Resolutions of respect, $1.00. Reading notices in town items, 10c per line.

All matter sent in for publication in the Citizen must be signed, although the name of the contributor need not appear in print.

Single copies of the Citizen are on sale at the Citizen office and are sold by W. E. Boxerman, Bethel,
Stanley and Donald Brown, Bethel, Lawrence Perry, West Bethel,
Gordon Chase, Bryant Pond,
Ernest Swan, Locke Mills,
Stevens Pharmacy, South Paris.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 16, 1930

Pure Freedom

If freedom which is license means anything, it means freedom to look around the world and if possible to come in terms with it. There are unquestionably those, especially, if they are their own masters, who best realize their freedom in the service they give to others in their daily work; but it must be admitted that they almost always have the opportunity of commanding leisure when they need it.

They often spend it in Professor Cam-
bridge's prison, in the wilderness.
Because, and they are happy, because
ability to retire into the wilderness
demands even in these overwrought days, no great material resources; a retreat can be conducted on very little. Only the will to get away must be there, with worthy companions whether persons or thoughts. The thoughts will range over many things,
the highest and deepest, in a world
of surprising beauty and mystery.

Our level-headed and business-like civilization does some strangely irrational things now and then. In New York's Sing Sing prison the other day
a convict was taken ill with acute appendicitis. He was rushed to the prison hospital and an operation was performed. Unusual care was taken to see that his life was saved and that he had a speedy recovery. The state, it is only fair to say, took far more pains to prevent his death than would have been the case if he had been a law-abiding but penniless citizen
on the outside. And why? Well, the man was under sentence of death
—and it was deemed extremely important that medical science keep him alive until the day when he should be strapped into the electric chair
and killed in an orderly manner.
There is something supremely laugh-
able about that episode, say the Hall-fax Mail. Perhaps you can figure out for yourself what is wrong.

Arnold Bennett says that there is just one satisfactory test of a country's literary taste. This is whether the public buys enough books to enable writers to live modestly by their work. The great majority of French authors, he says, cannot hope to do this, but conditions in England
are considerably better. Some writers of serious books can even afford to take a fast now and then. Europe is again a test of that the United States is a terrible test. But if Mr. Bennett is a fast in fast one, and it seems recent, the European citizen is not a fast who is connected with American and the Boston Post. The number of citizens here who can afford to take their families abroad for long vacations and who can afford to buy books has not increased in Europe.

Taking the average distance moved
by a freight car in a day, it has been estimated that every car added to that daily average is equivalent to adding another freight car to the total of existing freight equipment. The increase of cars since the time of the Great War is thus equivalent to Greece's loss. This means addition of 100,000 cars to the already plenty enough fleet of nearly a saving of perhaps $200,000,000 in less capital, $2,000,000 to the annual
cost of new capital, another $2,000, 000 for annual depreciation charges and $1,000,000 for repair charges per year.

A French composer has promised
his next composition will be called
"George," and that herein he will put into song the scheming of a football coach, expressing in music
the tactics of brains and strategic skill. He does not say whether a soccer coach will stand for a football
or a tennis coach for some of the actions
of the officials.

There is a young man who is known about the neighborhood as George Bella, not being able to say to any thing for very long.

He's been with a good many who
can keep track of all the customers
of his and of the names of the "big firms" who make them.

SCIENTIST FINDS INFLUENZA GERM

Successfully Isolated After Six Years Research at Chicago University.

By H. IRVING KING
(Copyright)

GEORGE," said Arabella Stuart, looking meditatively at George Watkins, "I am thinking of getting married."

"Are you, indeed?" replied George
with languid interest; "any special person picked out, or is the field open
to all comers?"

"Oh, I have picked out the man,"
said Arabella, and then, after a pause,
"George, would you mind making love
to me?"

George started. "Why, Bella?" said
he, "this is so sudden—and besides,
there is Bertha, you know."

"Bertha Walwright? Of course,
You and she have been as good as engaged for some time now, haven't you?"

"Yes, we have," answered George,
looking with a puzzled air at the girl;
"and then, you know, besides, your father hates me as a certain dark gentleman is said to hate holy waters."

"Nevertheless and therefore and notwithstanding," said Bella, "I want you to be my son!"

"I am battered, delighted and
charmed, of course, but really you see—I—in fact—" stammered George.
"Nonsense," cried Bella; "haven't you the opportunity of commanding leisure when they need it?

They often spend it in Professor Cam-
bridge's prison, in the wilderness.

Because, and they are happy, because
ability to retire into the wilderness
demands even in these overwrought
days, no great material resources; a
retreat can be conducted on very little. Only the will to get away must be there, with worthy companions
whether persons or thoughts. The
thoughts will range over many things,
the highest and deepest, in a world
of surprising beauty and mystery.

Our level-headed and business-like
civilization does some strangely irrational things now and then. In New York's Sing Sing prison the other day
a convict was taken ill with acute
appendicitis. He was rushed to the prison hospital and an operation was performed. Unusual care was taken
to see that his life was saved and
that he had a speedy recovery. The
state, it is only fair to say, took far
more pains to prevent his death than
would have been the case if he had
been a law-abiding but penniless citizen
on the outside. And why? Well,
the man was under sentence of death
—and it was deemed extremely important that medical science keep him
alive until the day when he should
be strapped into the electric chair
and killed in an orderly manner.
There is something supremely laugh-
able about that episode, say the Hall-fax Mail. Perhaps you can figure out
for yourself what is wrong.

Arnold Bennett says that there is
just one satisfactory test of a country's literary taste. This is whether
the public buys enough books to enable writers to live modestly by
their work. The great majority of French authors, he says, cannot hope
to do this, but conditions in England
are considerably better. Some writers
of serious books can even afford to take a fast now and then. Europe is again a test of that the United States
is a terrible test. But if Mr. Bennett is a fast in fast one, and it seems
recent, the European citizen is not a fast who is connected with American
and the Boston Post. The number of citizens here who can afford to take their families abroad for long
vacations and who can afford to buy
books has not increased in Europe.

Taking the average distance moved
by a freight car in a day, it has been estimated that every car added to that
daily average is equivalent to adding
another freight car to the total
of existing freight equipment. The increase of cars since the time of the Great War is thus equivalent to Greece's loss. This means addition of 100,000 cars to the already
plenty enough fleet of nearly
a saving of perhaps $200,000,000 in
less capital, $2,000,000 to the annual
cost of new capital, another $2,000, 000 for annual depreciation charges
and $1,000,000 for repair charges per
year.

A French composer has promised
his next composition will be called
"George," and that herein he will put
into song the scheming of a football coach, expressing in music
the tactics of brains and strategic
skill. He does not say whether a soccer coach will stand for a football
or a tennis coach for some of the actions
of the officials.

There is a young man who is known
about the neighborhood as George Bella, not being able to say to any thing for very long.

He's been with a good many who
can keep track of all the customers
of his and of the names of the "big
firms" who make them.

George," said Bella, looking
meditatively at George Watkins, "I am thinking of getting
married."

"Are you, indeed?" replied George
with languid interest; "any special
person picked out, or is the field open
to all comers?"

"Oh, I have picked out the man,"
said Arabella, and then, after a pause,
"George, would you mind making love
to me?"

George started. "Why, Bella?" said
he, "this is so sudden—and besides,
there is Bertha, you know."

"Bertha Walwright? Of course,
You and she have been as good as engaged for some time now, haven't
you?"

"Yes, we have," answered George,
looking with a puzzled air at the girl;
"and then, you know, besides, your
father hates me as a certain dark gentleman is said to hate holy waters."

"Nevertheless and therefore and
notwithstanding," said Bella, "I want
you to be my son!"

"I am battered, delighted and
charmed, of course, but really you
see—I—in fact—" stammered George.
"Nonsense," cried Bella; "haven't
you the opportunity of commanding leisure when they need it?

They often spend it in Professor Cam-
bridge's prison, in the wilderness.

Because, and they are happy, because
ability to retire into the wilderness
demands even in these overwrought
days, no great material resources; a
retreat can be conducted on very little. Only the will to get away must be there, with worthy companions
whether persons or thoughts. The
thoughts will range over many things,
the highest and deepest, in a world
of surprising beauty and mystery.

Our level-headed and business-like
civilization does some strangely irrational things now and then. In New York's Sing Sing prison the other day
a convict was taken ill with acute
appendicitis. He was rushed to the prison hospital and an operation was performed. Unusual care was taken
to see that his life was saved and
that he had a speedy recovery. The
state, it is only fair to say, took far
more pains to prevent his death than
would have been the case if he had been a law-abiding but penniless citizen
on the outside. And why? Well,
the man was under sentence of death
—and it was deemed extremely important that medical science keep him
alive until the day when he should
be strapped into the electric chair
and killed in an orderly manner.
There is something supremely laugh-
able about that episode, say the Hall-fax Mail. Perhaps you can figure out
for yourself what is wrong.

Arnold Bennett says that there is
just one satisfactory test of a country's literary taste. This is whether
the public buys enough books to enable writers to live modestly by
their work. The great majority of French authors, he says, cannot hope
to do this, but conditions in England
are considerably better. Some writers
of serious books can even afford to take a fast now and then. Europe is again a test of that the United States
is a terrible test. But if Mr. Bennett is a fast in fast one, and it seems
recent, the European citizen is not a fast who is connected with American
and the Boston Post. The number of citizens here who can afford to take their families abroad for long
vacations and who can afford to buy
books has not increased in Europe.

Taking the average distance moved
by a freight car in a day, it has been estimated that every car added to that
daily average is equivalent to adding
another freight car to the total
of existing freight equipment. The increase of cars since the time of the Great War is thus equivalent to Greece's loss. This means addition of 100,000 cars to the already
plenty enough fleet of nearly
a saving of perhaps $200,000,000 in
less capital, $2,000,000 to the annual
cost of new capital, another $2,000, 000 for annual depreciation charges
and $1,000,000 for repair charges per
year.

A French composer has promised
his next composition will be called
"George," and that herein he will put
into song the scheming of a football coach, expressing in music
the tactics of brains and strategic
skill. He does not say whether a soccer coach will stand for a football
or a tennis coach for some of the actions
of the officials.

There is a young man who is known
about the neighborhood as George Bella, not being able to say to any thing for very long.

He's been with a good many who
can keep track of all the customers
of his and of the names of the "big
firms" who make them.

George," said Bella, looking
meditatively at George Watkins, "I am thinking of getting
married."

"Are you, indeed?" replied George
with languid interest; "any special
person picked out, or is the field open
to all comers?"

"Oh, I have picked out the man,"
said Arabella, and then, after a pause,
"George, would you mind making love
to me?"

George started. "Why, Bella?" said
he, "this is so sudden—and besides,
there is Bertha, you know."

"Bertha Walwright? Of course,
You and she have been as good as engaged for some time now, haven't
you?"

"Yes, we have," answered George,
looking with a puzzled air at the girl;
"and then, you know, besides, your
father hates me as a certain dark gentleman is said to hate holy waters."

"Nevertheless and therefore and
notwithstanding," said Bella, "I want
you to be my son!"

"I am battered, delighted and
charmed, of course, but really you
see—I—in fact—" stammered George.
"Nonsense," cried Bella; "haven't
you the opportunity of commanding leisure when they need it?

They often spend it in Professor Cam-
bridge's prison, in the wilderness.

Because, and they are happy, because
ability to retire into the wilderness
demands even in these overwrought
days, no great material resources; a
retreat can be conducted on very little. Only the will to get away must be there, with worthy companions
whether persons or thoughts. The
thoughts will range over many things,
the highest and deepest, in a world
of surprising beauty and mystery.

Our level-headed and business-like
civilization does some strangely irrational things now and then. In New York's Sing Sing prison the other day
a convict was taken ill with acute
appendicitis. He was rushed to the prison hospital and an operation was performed. Unusual care was taken
to see that his life was saved and
that he had a speedy recovery. The
state, it is only fair to say, took far
more pains to prevent his death than
would have been the case if he had been a law-abiding but penniless citizen
on the outside. And why? Well,
the man was under sentence of death
—and it was deemed extremely important that medical science keep him
alive until the day when he should
be strapped into the electric chair
and killed in an orderly manner.
There is something supremely laugh-
able about that episode, say the Hall-fax Mail. Perhaps you can figure out
for yourself what is wrong.

Arnold Bennett says that there is
just one satisfactory test of a country's literary taste. This is whether
the public buys enough books to enable writers to live modestly by
their work. The great majority of French authors, he says, cannot hope
to do this, but conditions in England
are considerably better. Some writers
of serious books can even afford to take a fast now and then. Europe is again a test of that the United States
is a terrible test. But if Mr. Bennett is a fast in fast one, and it seems
recent, the European citizen is not a fast who is connected with American
and the Boston Post. The number of citizens here who can afford to take their families abroad for long
vacations and who can afford to buy
books has not increased in Europe.

Taking the average distance moved
by a freight car in a day, it has been estimated that every car added to that
daily average is equivalent to adding
another freight car to the total
of existing freight equipment. The increase of cars since the time of the Great War is thus equivalent to Greece's loss. This means addition of 100,000 cars to the already
plenty enough fleet of nearly
a saving of perhaps $200,000,000 in
less capital, $2,000,000 to the annual
cost of new capital, another $2,000, 000 for annual depreciation charges
and $1,000,000 for repair charges per
year.

A French composer has promised
his next composition will be called
"George," and that herein he will put
into song the scheming of a football coach, expressing in music
the tactics of brains and strategic
skill. He does not say whether a soccer coach will stand for a football
or a tennis coach for some of the actions
of the officials.

There is a young man who is known
about the neighborhood as George Bella, not being able to say to any thing for very long.

He's been with a good many who
can keep track of all the customers
of his and of the names of the "big
firms" who make them.

George," said Bella, looking
meditatively at George Watkins, "I am thinking of getting
married."

"Are you, indeed?" replied George
with languid interest; "any special
person picked out, or is the field open
to all comers?"

"Oh, I have picked out the man,"
said Arabella, and then, after a pause,
"George, would you mind making love
to me?"

George started. "Why, Bella?" said
he, "this is so sudden—and besides,
there is Bertha, you know."

"Bertha Walwright? Of course,
You and she have been as good as engaged for some time now, haven't
you?"

"Yes, we have," answered George,
looking with a puzzled air at the girl;
"and then, you know, besides, your
father hates me as a certain dark gentleman is said to hate holy waters."

AST MILLTON

who is boarding at his home

Harvey, teacher home over the week storm was very achuck is in very good

He is not able to expect two mon-

on to haul pulp for

Bryant was in E-

ng's charms by mail.

Wouldn't some one like a nice Gergine is cooking

while in the camp-

mb visited at Li-

Outlines of His stated grim tragedy. The little German girl's mother had in Europe. She had to go home.

another romance was knocked off

head. That's the post office in-

sters' story and they are stickin-

g. Mrs. Welsert and her husband, have confessed that the charges

true.

Yes, that's the way we worked

Welsert said in the county jail,

he is held in lieu of $2,000 bond

had to live and that was an easy to get money.

It's all my fault, though, I wrote

most of the letters. Say, I wrote so many letters that I was almost ready

some one myself."

The "bride-to-be" was released on

own recognition to care for their

young children. Date of trial in ederal court has not been set.

According to postal inspectors a

ever matrimonial magazine was in the alleged scheme. The husband would write to the paper, each

one listing his wife under a different name.

And such nice German names-

as, Else Schilt, Else Hammer, Martha Schmidt, Martha Bowman.

Then the magazine would send the name of the "lonely girl" to an including "lonely man." But when the writers started to protest about the

alleged fares, the magazine turned

the matter over to the postal inspectors and the Welserts were traced

through some of the addresses listed in the home of the buxom German

girl.

HE WAS FAT AND FORTY,
BUT SUCKERS FELL FOR HER

Reported Husband and Two Children by Selling Her Charms
by Mail.

Los Angeles.—She was fat and forty and had a husband and, if you believe the government's postal inspectors, she had a sweetheart in every town.

The lady in question is Mrs. Elsie Welsert, who supported friend and foes and their two children by selling charms for cash by mail.

Wouldn't some one like a nice German wife? A buxom girl of thirty was a swell cook? Didn't some one want to marry her?

The romantic snickers replied that she did. The practical Mrs. Welsert, the chattering husband wrote to new boy friends asking for raffle fare with which to hasten to the front.

It started grim tragedy. The little German girl's mother had in Europe. She had to go home.

another romance was knocked off

head. That's the post office in-

sters' story and they are stickin-

g. Mrs. Welsert and her husband,

have confessed that the charges

true.

Yes, that's the way we worked

Welsert said in the county jail,

he is held in lieu of $2,000 bond

had to live and that was an easy

to get money.

It's all my fault, though, I wrote

most of the letters. Say, I wrote so many letters that I was almost ready

some one myself."

The "bride-to-be" was released on

own recognition to care for their

young children. Date of trial in ederal court has not been set.

According to postal inspectors a

ever matrimonial magazine was

in the alleged scheme. The husband would write to the paper, each

one listing his wife under a different name.

And such nice German names-

as, Else Schilt, Else Hammer, Martha Schmidt, Martha Bow-

man.

Then the magazine would send the

name of the "lonely girl" to an including "lonely man." But when the

writers started to protest about the

alleged fares, the magazine turned

the matter over to the postal inspectors and the Welserts were traced

through some of the addresses listed

in the home of the buxom German

girl.

Finds Real Van Dyck;

Loses It at Bargain

Mexico City.—Here's a hard luck story told by J. Thurston of London, who is in Mexico in search of antiques.

At "Thieves' Market," popular Mexican City bazaar, Mr. Thurston found among an assortment of valuable paintings a picture of a boy that attracted his attention. The canvas was in a deplorable condition and the painting had all the marks of a discarded article.

He examined the painting closely and was struck by its color and technique. With a moltened handkerchief he rubbed a corner of the picture and discovered the signature "Van Dyck, 1621." It was the work of the celebrated Flemish painter, Van Dyck.

He offered 5 pesos for the picture but was told the price was 40 pesos.

He did not have that amount on his person and promised to return the following day. Upon returning he found the owners had had the painting appraised and refused to sell it at any price.

Get 68,500,000 Trees

for Reforestation

Washington.—The forest service of the Agriculture department announced that 68,500,291 trees were furnished by 34 states, Hawaii and Porto Rico for the year for re-stocking farm timelands.

Coincident with the department's announcement, George Pratt, president of the American Forestry Association, long a leader in the cause of forest preservation, called at the White House to urge increased appropriations of $2,500,000 for forest fire fighting purposes.

Pratt told President Hoover much of last year's $3,000,000 damage to the country's forests could have been averted had there been adequate funds with which to combat fire. Only $100,000 annually now is available, he pointed out.

Most of the trees were furnished by farmers at cost, the Agriculture department said in its announcement, though several states distributed a very stock tree. New York and Pennsylvania led the 34 states, each contributing more than 9,000,000 trees.

China Mandate Orders

Use of New Calendar

Shanghai.—Documents dated by China's old style lunar calendar will be valid after January 1, 1930, according to a mandate issued by the central government.

It is hoped that if the government can compel business houses to follow the "foreign style calendar," the general public will do so likewise.

These efforts at modernizing the calendar have met with scant success.

and Chinese New Year was duly celebrated throughout the country this year in spite of official prohibitions.

The Unknown Genius

By JANE OSBORN
(Copyright)

MAUDE DALE, associate fiction editor of Turner's Short Story Magazine, had about decided that, if no job, she could no longer endure working side by side with Mr. Jeffer Snodgrass. She had stood it for four years; she was quite sure that much of the success of the magazine was due to her own discrimination in selecting short stories. But he only criticized her and took all the credit himself.

That afternoon she began to look through her desk. There were things she wanted to destroy or sort and send to be filed before she really broke with Snodgrass.

There was a manuscript, written on cheap manila paper. It was obviously written by a beginner. Maude recalled the day she acquired that manuscript. The tall, very lean, almost ferocious young man who had come into her room pushed back the boy in the outer office and insisted that he must see the "fellow that selected the stories." He had been surprised when he saw that "the fellow was a slip of a girl, then not more than twenty-two."

That was three years ago, when she had not been working with Snodgrass very long. Actually he had looked over it as he passed his manuscript down on her desk and had told her that he was so sure he could write that he felt he would be in the right to force an editor to buy it. It wasn't his cocksureness that had made her do what she had done, but the fact that she really thought he looked hungry.

Of course she thought the manuscript was worthless, but she bought it—made out a fake pay slip for it walked down the hall, where she took thirty dollars from her own freshly paid my envelope, and brought it back, pretending she had been to the cashier.

Well, here was the manuscript. It was signed John Davis. She had read it before, and, finding it, as she thought, extremely unusual, had passed it on to Mr. Snodgrass.

Here are a few of his latest epigrams which are now known as "De-warsisms."

"Man was born to sorrow—when he gets too old to fall in love he gets sport." Sport gives the mind a holiday and stops you musing the ponders of life and its perplexities.

"The country that is considered in the forefront of civilization is the one which can make the most deadly poison gas, and send missionaries to convert the heathen. No man can tell the discoveries the Scotch have made for the benefit of civilization."

"Ninety per cent of those going back to the land are carrying golf clubs. The surest way to be happy is to get so busy that you have no time to be happy. Let us live our lives that the undertaker will be the only one who will rejoice when we die. Ability without enthusiasm—and you have a rifle without a bullet."

But Maude had not the slightest way of finding the whereabouts of the author, and knew only that his name, or assumed name, was John Davis. She simply told Mr. Snodgrass that the manuscript had come with no address, and awaited developments, saying nothing for the time being concerning her own intention of quitting her job. So it was decided to publish this amazing story in a great splash—so the manuscript of an unknown genius, unpaid for, because said genius had failed to leave his address. For days after the issue of Turner's Magazine this story was the talk of reviewers.

Then one day the illustrious Chester Dawlish blew into the editorial offices, rushing by the reception clerk in the outer office. Mr. Snodgrass was overcome with this honor, and then sat in mute amazement as Mr. Dawlish stood excitedly before Maude Davis's desk.

"That's my story," he said eagerly, "and you are the girl I've been looking for all these years."

There were explanations, and the successful writer explained more leisurely that at the time of his first visit he had actually been starving. He'd tried to sell the story in every magazine office in town, but the editors wouldn't even see him. Later when he found success in such generous measure, he had wanted to come back to find this girl who had given him his first encouragement, but he had been so excited and so near starvation at the time that he couldn't even remember in which of the numerous magazine offices he had met with this first success.

A week later Maude Davis resigned

—her excuse being that she was about to wed Chester Dawlish.

From Roman Calendar

"The Ides of March" constituted a definite day in the old Roman calendar. The word signifies "divide." In March the ides occurred on the fifteenth, while in certain other months it was the thirteenth. Julius Caesar was warned by a soothsayer to beware of that day, which proved to be the day of his assassination.

WARTIME WYOMING BUDDIES CONTESTING FOR SAME JOB

One Wants Court to Oust Other From Position of Adjutant General

Cheyenne, Wyo.—Wyoming has the unique situation of World war buddies, both seriously wounded during the same battle and approximately at the same time, contending for the same office.

R. L. Esmy, recently appointed adjutant general of Wyoming, went into office upon the removal from the same post of Lt. Col. Walter F. Davis. Now Davis is contesting the removal in the courts at Cheyenne.

Here's the coincidence—Esmy and Davis were in the same brigade and in the same division, the Ninety-first, during the World war. Both were in the battle of Argonne and it was Esmy who led a platoon to relieve that of the then Lieutenant Davis.

A short time later, Davis, back to the front with his platoon, was shot in the leg, meanwhile Esmy had been shot twice in the head and once in the shoulder. They were sent to different hospitals. By chance they met each other in Paris shortly after they had been released.

Meanwhile in Wyoming, Esmy's father had received official notification that his son had been killed in France on March 23, which was four days before he was wounded. And Davis' wife, in Wyoming, received a message from Uncle Sam informing her that her husband had been seriously wounded. This message was dated weeks after Davis had been released from the hospital.

The war over, they returned to Wyoming. Esmy was appointed adjutant general. Came a change of administration and Esmy was removed and Davis appointed in his place. Esmy became a militia captain under Davis. Again a change in administration and out went Davis and Esmy was put back in office. Now Davis files a petition in the courts questioning the

Classified Advertising

Twenty-five words or less, one week, 25 cents; second week, 15 cents; each additional week, 10 cents.
Each word more than 25, one cent per word per week.

Any changes of copy after first insertion will be considered a new advertisement and charged accordingly.

For Sale

FOR SALE—Barred Rock Hatching Eggs, $7.00 per hundred, and Day Old Chicks, $2.00 per hundred. Three Elm Poultry Farm, Gilford, Maine. 391

YARNS of pure wool worsted for caps, mittens, stockings and sweaters, also Hooked Rug Yarns. Orders sent C. O. D. Postage paid. Free samples. Concord Worsted Mills, Dept. M-3, Concord, N. H. 44

FOR SALE—Several acres of land with four buildings, in back of Thruson's mill, Holland Annex, Bethel. 40

RUG AND KNITTING YARNS FOR SALE by manufacturer. Samples free. B. A. Hartlett, Harmony, Maine. 39

FOR SALE—1 good used hot air furnace with quantity of pipe, registers, etc.; 1 used circulating heater (cannot be told from new); 1 used range, Queen Atlantic, a good buy. C. H. ALTON BATON, Bryant's Pond. 334

FOR SALE—Six Tubo Mohawk Radios, Full electric. Bargain. E. E. Lyon. 324

RAW FURS Wanted of All Kinds Also Deer Skins. Highest price paid. Will call any time. L. Cummings, Tc. 29193, Bethel, Me. 291

FOR SALE—Fitted Hard Wood, $12 each. Stairs and edges $6.00. Few good trades in second hand cars. V. E. Bunn, B. H. 214

Guns, Rifles, Ammunition and Trap traps. Supplies, as gun, sold and exchanged. H. E. Bunn, Gun Buyer, Bethel, Maine. 291

Wanted

WANTED—A few copies of the Citizen of Oxford, N. Y., good edition, at the lowest price. 34

Announcement

NOTICE—I have completed my duties at Consett's Garage, where I have been an efficient workman for the past ten years. I will greatly appreciate any advice that I can be to the public at all times to give them the best, honest and efficient service. May I have at the past, if you need any parts, can also give advice, etc., and to do a number of small jobs, including the Model A, 1929 cars and trucks. N. C. MAHIA, V. E. Bunn, B. H. Tel. 29131. 391

PIANO TUNING—H. L. White will be in Bethel about Jan. 16. Orders with F. J. Tyler or write 7 Western View St., Bethel. 40

The office will be open to a recent visitor of the office to see that he has not been a good guest.

Also get advice. It is not there when the office is open. 7 Western View St., Bethel. 40

It is a pleasure for the office who does the best work in the business are handling business as usual.

Finally getting back to the office after being away for a week, I am pleased to see that the office is in good condition, continuing the known past work.

With best regards to the office, I hope to see you again soon. The office is in good condition, continuing the known past work.

TIME TABLE
B. & O. R. R. BETHEL, B. H.

1929 a Healthful Year
Despite Flu Epidemic

New York. In spite of the influenza epidemic during the first three months of the year 1929 has been a healthful year so far as statistics of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company have announced. At the end of the year 1928 and 1929 made history with records of the number of deaths per 100,000 persons in the United States for the year 1929.

Health is the secret of the long life.

Health is the secret of the long life.